*Anacortes Homes Featured in *Shore Décor—Design at the Water's Edge

ANACORTES—Three home interiors designed by Molly McIntosh of Gracious Living Interior Design are featured in the lush new coffee table book, Shore Décor—Design at the Water's Edge, by E. Ashley Rooney.

Not bound by traditional coastal design, McIntosh translates her clients' lifestyles and design preferences into homes with comfortable elegance. Her featured projects include "Art-filled Contemporary," "Old World Comfort," and her re-make of a 1940s bungalow, "Mid-century Update."

Some 50 homes from around the continental U.S. are depicted in the book through 350 color photographs of the homes and shoreline lifestyles. A resource section provides notes on each of the contributing interior designers.

According to the publisher, Schiffer Publishing, Ltd., "Homes that sit on the water's edge offer tranquility and tradition that have long been part of the American Dream." The 208-page book captures those dreams in an inspirational collection of professionally designed interiors. From rustic (and not-so-rustic) retreats to Mediterranean-style villas and contemporary condos, all are influenced by the nearby water, be it rocky shoreline, beach, lake, pond, or river.

Gracious Living photographs are by KP Studios. Jan Hersey, Biz Point Communications, worked with McIntosh to provide captions for her chapters in the book.

Shore Décor is available at Watermark Books in Anacortes. A portfolio of Gracious Living Interior Design work, including additional photos of the homes featured in the book, may be found at www.graciouslivinginteriors.com.
